New Program!

Triple Threat Basketball Clinic 2010 Pre-Season Girls Offensive Clinic (K-8)

Coach Dorcas Miller graduated from Bridgewater-Raritan High School an accomplished student-athlete in 1999. She went on to the University of Hartford, where she continued to play basketball. She graduated from Hartford with a degree in psychology in 2003. Coach Miller had the opportunity to coach the girl's freshman team at Bridgewater-Raritan High School in 2006-2007. As a result of coaching they ended their season being 21-1. As this being her first time being a head coach of a team Coach Miller prides herself in dedication, commitment and motivation. She pushed these girls to the limit each day in practice and also in the game. As result the team finished off being one of the best freshman teams here at Bridgewater-Raritan High School. Currently, Coach Miller is the Head Coach of Bridgewater-Raritan Girls Basketball. This is her third year as head coach and she continues to love every minute of it. Their records over the course of the three years are: 2008-2007: 14-13; 2008-2009: 18-10; 2009-2010: 24-3. Coach Miller teaches fifth grade at Eisenhower Intermediate School and continues to lead her varsity team to much success being named Conference Champs this year.

The Bridgewater Recreation Department along with Bridgewater-Raritan High School Varsity Head Basketball Coach Dorcas Miller and her staff will demonstrate the basic fundamental skills that are needed to be a well rounded offensive basketball player. We will review several ball handling drills and fundamentals including two-ball dribbling. Shooting and passing along with free throws in-between all offensive drills. So come out and enhance your skills by learning how to shoot, pass and dribble at Coach Miller's Triple Threat Pre-Season Clinic! "You don't play against opponents. You play against the game of basketball" – Bobby Knight
