

Mayor Hayes Proclaims Ovarian Cancer Awareness

On Wednesday September 9th, Mayor Hayes hosted the second annual Turn the Towns Teal Event. Many residents and dignitaries were in attendance. The event started with the presentation of a proclamation by Mayor Hayes. Deacon Lou Pizzigoni of Blessed Sacrament Church led the opening invocation. Speeches on information and awareness were made by members of the Cancer Support Community of Central NJ and the National Ovarian Cancer Coalition. Resident Renee Edwards spoke to the crowd on the importance of annual checks. She, along with Mayor Hayes then tied the Teal Ribbon around a tree in recognition and awareness of Ovarian Cancer. The harp was then played by Patricia Turse in a moment of silence. The ceremony was closed with words from the Bridgewater Robotics Team 303 leader, Sonia Gupta and a closing benediction was done by Pastor Shawn White of Gateway Baptist Church. Mayor Hayes thanks all who attended and the efforts of everyone who helped make Turn the Towns Teal possible.
